A land of traditions

Sitting at the crossroads of three mountain ranges, the Val d'Arly is a tourist destination which still retains its own traditions and heritage. Part of the Pays d'Art et d'Histoire des Hautes Vallées de Savoie since 2006, along with the Beaufortain, Maurienne and Tarentaise areas, the Val d'Arly is passionate about keeping its local history alive and about sharing its fascinating past with visitors. The local cultural foundation FACIM provides around thirty accredited guides who oversee all the cultural events in this Pays d'Art et d'Histoire.

There's literally something for everyone! The programme features conferences, lectures, educational workshops, films, guided visits and even produce tastings.
